“The frames fill the gaps in the stories as the starting point of a narrative journey, of a personal and individual language. The natural and urban environments of my last 25 years are transformed into projects and stories based on ideas that arose in my head, the permanent search for answers to questions, beliefs and thoughts, an introspection of outcomes based on the present an enormous and profound force of expressive feelings, a poem without words that sets itself apart from rules and conventions. The search for a space with the objective of a personal creative style without guidelines, which frequently eludes skill in its description, conveying elements that I cannot express in any other form because I cannot find the words, and that in visual terms, sometimes materializing in different results, transforming, adapting or interpreting a reality”.
